Some Do Resign.

The saying that "few die and none resign" as applied to federal employees dates back to Andrew Jackson's time.

The same feeling has been common ever since, and it has been a favorite excuse for attacks on the merit system of filling public offices in congress and outside. Yet it appears from the annual report of the civil service commission that about 70 in every 1,000 government employees resigned of their own free will last year. That is 7 per cent of the whole number. A similar rate of voluntary withdrawals from the service of a great railroad company would mean from 1,000 to 2,000 or 3,000 changes in a year—Boston Transcript.

JOHN L. STRONG
as a candidate for Assessor of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR SHERIFF.

I am a candidate for Sheriff of Breathitt County at the coming November election.
BRECK CRAWFORD
Cope Branch, Ky.

FOR JAILER.

We are authorized to announce
LEWIS GROSS,
of Elkatawa, as a candidate for the office of Jailer of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR JAILER.

We are authorized to announce
S. E. COOPER
as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Republican party.

A COMPARISON OF ADMINIS- TRATION.

We said last week that a comparison of the present and former administrations would make interesting reading to the taxpayers of this county.

We have carefully examined the records now on file in the County Clerk's office, and submit below a comparison of the records of 1901, the last year of the Hagins administration, with the records of 1904, the last year of the Hargis administration.

YEAR 1901.

Total tax charged for 1901.....$ 7,964 74
L. & E. Railway..... 344 25
Received from Bridge
in 1901..... 2,026 16

Total chargeable for the
year 1901.....$10,332 15

YEAR 1904.

Total tax charged for 1904 ..... $14,092 94

Received from O. & K.
Railway..... 2,500 00
Received from Bridge
in 1904..... 3,230 78

Total chargeable for the
year 1904.....$19,823 72
Difference between 1901 and 1904—$9,491 57.

While property in this county has increased very little, if any, in value during this time, yet you see that the amount of taxes has very greatly increased. As this money comes from the pockets of the taxpayers they have a right to know what is done with it.

We know from report
it took less than $10,000
to run the government of Breathitt county during the Hargis administration, and we know it should not take any more to run it now, than it did then.

We built the bridge
made many other improvements can you see show where any bridge or any paid during the Hargis administra-

What has been done with the extra $9,000 collected in 1904? Why tax the people so much to keep up a few high salaries? Cut down the taxes and cut down the salaries and stop the bungles.

One dollar is enough poll tax
for any man to pay.

High taxes, high salaries, extravagances for the few, hard times for the tax-payers.

Is your property worth very much more now than it was three years ago? Yet you are taxed nearly twice as much.

You pay $1.25 tax this year for every dollar you paid last year,
although you listed the same property. What will they do to you next year?

Taxes have been as high as the law allows all during the present administration. What would they have done if there had been no bridge money?

Leaton and his son, Wick, have grazed all day some time and went in bathing in the field in the evening. A heavy rain came up and the water ran feet deep in a swale in the field where they had mowed this morning.

T. Gevedon, representative of D. H. Baldwin & Co., Cincinnati, O., was here the first of the week and gave us an advertisement, which will be found in another column. He has sold a great many pianos and organs in this section, all of which are giving perfect satisfaction as far as we know.

Ball Game Tomorrow.

There will be a base ball game tomorrow afternoon, (Saturday) at 2:30 o'clock, at the ball park between the Campion and Jackson lubs. Our boys have not lost a game this season nor do they play on Sunday. At the last game at the park a young couple occupied seats in the stand. She had won an enthusiastic heart understanding the game right off and had her more than if she had seen a sister. "The game reminds me of the household," he said, "the plate, the batter, the foul and the flies." "And it reminds me of marriage," she added. "First the diamond, where they are engaged, and the struggle and hits, when the men go out, and finally so difficultly have in getting home." Come out tomorrow and root for your favorite club.

CHAPTER XXI.
I followed him up a marble staircase and a dawdling old English butler opened the door for us. We entered a fine hall, its floor of beautiful parquetry, mottled with silken rugs. High and spacious rooms were all aglow with light.

He conducted me to a large smoking room, its floor and walls covered with trophies of the hunt, antlers and the skins of carnivores. Here he threw off his coat and made me sit down as he lay down upon a wider divan covered with the tawny skin of some wild animal. He stroked the skin with his hand.

"Hello, Jack," he said, a greeting that mystified me.

"Fried to eat me," he added, turning to me.

Then he bared his great hairy arm and showed me a lot of ugly scars. I besought him to tell the story.

"Killed him," he answered.

"With a gun?"

"No, with my hands." And that was all he would say of it.

He lay facing a black curtain that covered a corner. Now and then I heard a singular sound in the room—some faint, far night cry such as I have heard often in the deep woods. It was so weird I felt some wonder of it.

Presently I could tell it came from behind the curtain, where also I heard an odd rustle like that of wings.

I sat in a reverie looking at the silent man before me, and in the midst of it he pulled a cord that hung near him, and a bolt rang.

"Luncheon," he said to the old butler who entered immediately.

Then he rose and showed me odd things carved out of wood by his own hands as he told me, and with a smile.

He had gone well beyond those steambath and looked in silence, even turning his dark sky, where only a few were visible.

"With a grunt, beats."

"I thought it was"— “A great deal more was happening in

A great double moon seemed flying over the city hooded in purple haze. A little spray of silver light broke out of it as we looked, and shot backward and then floated after the two shining disks that were falling eastward in a long curve. They seemed to be so near that they were con-ting down upon the city. It occurred to me they must have some connection with the odd experience I had game through. In a moment they had passed out of sight. We were not aware that we had witnessed a spectacle the like of which had not been seen in centuries if ever, since God made the heavens and the great ocean of space.

"Let's go back," said Trumbull. "We've gone too far, I forgot myself."

"Gilbert?" I inquired.

"Gilbert," he answered.

It was a little figure bound half and foot and hanging from the gallows tree.

"Burn it!" he said, turning to the old servant and putting it to his hands.

Linnehan had been set between us while, and as we were eating it the butler opened a big couch and threw snowy sheets of linen over it and silk covers that rustled as they fell.

"You will sleep there," said my host as his servant laid the pillows. "and well, I hope."

I thought I had better go to my lodgings.

"Too late, too late," said he, and I leg weary and half asleep, accepted his offer of hospitality. Then, having eaten, he left me, and I got into bed after turning the lights out. Something woke me in the dark of the night. There was a rustling sound in the room. I raised my head a bit and noted. It was the couch creaking in the corner. I thought it was a body striking it. I turned over in the white figure stand in the darkness. It moved again, and at it. A cold shiver ran down my face. I lay a instant and by and by I recognized the voice of Trumbull as he was going and muttering in his sleep.

"You love Hope," he said presently.

"You will marry her?" he said.

"You must wait," he said, "till next evening."

He quirked his pace again as we were in sight of the sordid shopping and houses of the upper city, and no other word was spoken. On the other side we saw men looking at us and talking of the future.

It gave me a start when I saw the bill would empty my pocket of more than half its cash. But I had a stiff pace to follow and every reason to look my best.

"Come in," said he as he rose to his feet.

For breakfast I went to the postman who had been there and brought no letter from home, excepting
